Small Secessionist single handle bowl, design Gustav Gurschner, manufactured by K.K. Kunst-Erzgiesserei Wien, circa 1906, bronze patinated, marked

This small Secessionist bowl may have been modeled after an ancient vessel, possibly a single-handled tallow lamp. With its out-of-time shape and Etruscan patterns, it perfectly embodies the eclectic taste of Gustav Gurschner, who designed numerous ornamental objects, sculptures, lamps, candlesticks, and vases around 1900. The wall is quadruple decorated with a Etruscan knot pattern. A spiral knot is worked all around the shouldered upper part of the ovoid bowl, which, with its scroll bands, also reflects very well the Viennese Secessionist taste of the time.
