Dancer, Franz Hagenauer, Werkstätte Hagenauer
Wien, ca. 1953, brass, cast and nickel-plated, marked

Our dancer is based on a similar design by Franz Hagenauer from 1929, which also features an arm set at a right angle, expressively reaching into space. The elongated, simplified form of our dancer, like many of his other models, is enveloped by a winding band that not only adds dynamism to the figure but also enhances its spatial presence. The rationalization and smoothness of the design reference Hagenauer's early Art Deco works, which are characterized by their clear lines and geometric expression.
