Vase with three handles, Johann Loetz-Witwe, decor Candia Cytisus, ca. 1902

The "Cytisus" decor is certainly one of the most exquisite decor variations created by Loetz glassworks. With its shimmering gold particles, it perfectly reflects the Secessionist style of Vienna at the turn of the last century.

Thus, Max Ritter von Spaun and his collaborators proved to be both artistically and aesthetically spot on. The vessel's shape was probably modeled after a goblet or a baluster-vase. Its miniature design in combination with the intriguing decor certainly does not fail its enchanting effect.
